THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

AN HISTORICAL SKETCH,

BY ESTELLE M. TATTERSON; '69.

IN good old colony times, following closely in the wake of the church came the school and as the country developed, the public schools supported by public funds became the cradle of our liberties and the nursery of our constitution. The means of grace and the means of knowledge were usually as near neighbors in actuality as they were in spirit, consequently to locate the first school in Biddeford it seems eminently proper to look for it, somewhere in the vicinity of the first church, which according to the best authorities seems to have been at Leighton's Point, between the old Pool Road leading to Fortunes or Fortin's Rocks and the present road passing over the little bridge to the "Neck." "Between the years 1660 and 1666 a meeting house was built at Winter Harbor," is a statement made in Folsom's History of Saco and Biddeford.

The first mention of public schools made in that somewhat remarkable work is the following taken from the town records: In 1732, "the town voted that Mr. John Gordon prefer a petition in behalf of the inhabitants of the town to the Great and General Court of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, that all the nonimproved lands in propriety, in the aforesaid township be taxed as they shall in their wisdom see meet for the ends that followeth: for building of our minister's house and payment of our schoolmaster."

Very little if anything can be learned of the schools during the next hundred years and it is safe to surmise that the cause of education progressed, for in the same volume is found, that in 1830, the date of its publication, "the amount of school money raised annually in Biddeford has not exceeded $1200., the sum required by law is about $700. A grammar school is supported during the greater part of the year near the Falls and the remainder of the money is distributed among ten classes or districts."

Apropos of the grammar school near the Falls it may be said, that the settlement, at what is now the cities of Saco and Biddeford was for a considerable period known as Saco Falls. It was in 1718 that the inhabitants on this side the river petitioned to be set off in a separate town in these words: "Nov. 14, 1718. On petition of H. Scamman and others, resolved, that £40 be allowed and paid out of the public treasury towards the support of a minister at Winter Harbor (Pool) for this year; and that the petitioners be invested with the powers of a town according to the ancient bounds thereof; provided that this order shall in no measure intringe the just title of any person to lands there, and that 50 families at the least, more than now are, to be admitted as soon as may be, and settle in a compact and defensible manner according to the directions of Hon. John Wheelwright (of Wells) and others, the committee for regulating the eastern settlements; and that the name thereof be BIDDEFORD."

(It is supposed, that a number of these inhabitants came from Biddeford or Bideford, Devonshire, England, a seaport town, the derivation of which was By the Ford.) The town meeting in March, 1719 is the first recorded to have been holden in Biddeford and the town meeting with its successor the municipal election has occurred in March to this day.

In 1830, according to the testimony of men and women now living in this city, who were residents at that period, there were two school houses within the present city limits known as the Upper and Lower School houses, the former being located just off Lincoln Street, near what is now Pearl Street, of which the upper floor was also used as a Concert Hall. This is now in existence as a dwelling house near the lower end of Wentworth Street having been moved there after it passed into disuse as a school house.

The lower school house was on Emery's Lane now Emery Street and is at present a tenement house on the west side of the street having also been abandoned for school purposes in 1849.

The cause of education must have been most materially boomed, to use a common phrase of today, during the next fifteen or twenty years, for in the year or two prior to 1850, there seemed to be great activity and enterprise in school circles resulting in the building of several school houses still occupied for such purposes. The brick school building on Sullivan Street was constructed in 1846 and that on Spruce Street in 1847 and the town must certainly have taken much pride in these structures so well built and commodious that even the authorities of 1901 seem to see no flaw in them and to feel that they have kept pace with all demands.

The Washington Street school house was completed in 1848 and that year certainly marks an epoch, for the Biddeford High School was opened in the new building with William K. Vaill, as principal. He however only remained two months being succeeded by Horace Piper, who during the two years of his service left an influence for good behind him that is felt to this day. The first person to receive the school diploma was Miss Elizabeth L. P. Adams, who graduated in 1852. This lady afterwards became Mrs James G. Garland and resided in this city until her recent death in December, 1900. Mrs. Garland presented this diploma to the High School a number of years since with many valuable reference books, all of which were destroyed in the fire of 1893.

The Pool Street school house according to the school report of 1856-1857 was built in 1856 though the land was purchased in 1849. The building on Foss Street which has been mentioned in a most unflattering way, in the school reports since 1876 was erected in 1856, but it seems to hold its own in spite of frequent condemnation and looks quite as well as it did 25 years ago.

Summer Street school house was added to the list in 1872 and Birch and Bradbury Streets were enriched by educational establishments in 1880. In 1883 and 1884 the Wentworth Street house was built, one of the best in the city but it was not until 1888, that a new building was deemed necessary to accomodate the ever increasing demands of the High School. This handsome edifice was completed and occupied in September 1889 and was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. On Sunday, Oct. 23, 1893 the building was destroyed by fire and the library and finely equipped laboratory were ruined with all their contents, including many valuable books and documents impossible to replace. Its reconstruction took place as soon as possible and on April 23, just six months from the day of the fire, the school was once more installed in the new building which is at once the pride of the pupils and Alumni of the school and an ornament and credit to the city. In the fifty-three years of its existence the school has had fifteen different principals, many of them able exponents of their profession. The present head of the school is Harry H. Burnham, who has been connected with the institution as pupil, sub-master and principal for many years. Mr.

Burnham is a graduate of Dartmouth, a scholar of excellent attainments and an instructor of unquestioned ability. He is ably assisted by four admirable teachers constituting a faculty, which has rarely been equalled in the history of the school and never excelled. The membership at present numbers 163 pupils and it is the aim of the Superintendent and Principal to make the curriculum such as will best suit the needs of the community and pupils, to provide the elements of general culture and supply the needs of the individual. Over 800 pupils have graduated from this school and gone out into the world, to fill all kinds of positions and all sorts of conditions. Prominent educators, clergyman, physicians, lawyers, journalists and merchants claim this school as their Alma Mater, while women, who are factors to be counted, in whatever community they reside are numbered among the Alumni.

The Alumni Association was formed in October, 1887, the first of the kind in the State and its annual reunions have become a feature of Commencement Week. Many excellent lectures and fine concerts have been given under the auspices of this association and numerous valuable books have been purchased from its funds and donated to the High School and Public Libraries.

The number of pupils enrolled in the Grammar, Primary and Rural Schools last year was 1009. This includes the Kindergarten, which is located in the building on Birch Street and is in charge of Miss Grace T. Burbank. These pupils are under the instruction of 38 teachers. The limits of a sketch like this will not permit individual mention, though the desire may be strong to go into detail concerning the high quality of the work done by many of these teachers. The writer has been in touch with the public schools of this city since early youth and can gladly testify to the intelligent and conscientious work which has done so much to put these schools in their present creditable condition. Owing to the fact, that 2 very large parochial schools exist in the city, the increase in population has not produced a corresponding addition to the enrollment of pupils in the lower grades and none of the primary schools suffer from the crowded condition, that exists in some cities.

Previous to the year 1883, several attempts had been made to conduct an evening school, for the benefit of those, whose employment prevented them from attending day schools and in that year the school board opened one with volunteer teachers. The demand for such a school being great, in January, 1884, the hall and ante-rooms in Kendall's Block on Alfred Street were secured and fitted up in a somewhat primitive manner for an evening school, which opened with nearly 200 pupils and a corps of experienced teachers. It was deemed necessary, that only those be employed, who were used to the work, as the difficulties of organization would be great and discipline at first, somewhat an uncertain quality.

Edward S. Morris, who was a teacher of long standing was placed in charge and for his assistants, he had the late Henry J. Tatterson and wife and Mrs. John Robbins, all of whom were practical teachers. The results of two winters work were such as to settle the question of utility, as well as practicability, though it was a winter of unique experiences for all concerned. The Evening School became a permanent feature of the school system and has continued until the present time under the management of only three different principals, Mr. Morris, Mr. Tatterson and Mrs. Robbins. I have been requested to give a somewhat detailed account of this school and its work as comparatively few of the citizens realize the importance of the undertaking or the success, which has met the efforts of those connected with it.

The school is kept open during four months of each year, beginning early in November and occupies the upper part of the Washington Street school house and its success has been marked from the first. Most of the pupils now in the school attend for the purpose of learning to read and write the English language, though arithmetic forms a part of the course and their deportment and application to their work, to say nothing of their personal appearance is fully equal to that of day pupils. Mrs. Robbins is the present principal and her assistants for several years have been James H. Bradbury, Miss Fannie E. Googins, Miss Emily B. Morris, Albert Marcille and Edward Deering as instructor in penmanship and drawing. The present attendance is between 175 and 200 and the demand for seats every fall far exceeds the capacity of the rooms.

The schools are all under the jurisdiction of the School Board and the direct supervision of the Superintendent of Schools, who is also the Secretary of the Board. Until 1881, the schools were directed and controlled by a board of officials known as the Superintending School Committee and in establishing the number of which, the board was to consist, there seemed to be a fixed rule, that it should never be less than the GRACES nor more than the MUSES, so these official gentleman, numbering at first three were increased to nine. In 1881 wishing to keep pace with other cities of like size and ambitions, a Superintendent was chosen in the person of Prof. James Burrier, who remained but two years. Mr. Burrier brought earnestness and enthusiasm to the work of reorganization and laid the foundation of the present system and much credit should be given him. His successor was Rev. B. P. Snow, who retired at the end of two years service and he was followed by the present incumbent, Mr. Royal E. Gould, who has so ably filled the position ever since his election to the office, Mr. Gould's devotion to the welfare of the schools and his popularity with teachers and pupils render him a most efficient superintendent.

From 1835 to 1901 is a long period in time and progress and from the schools of that day to our present system is a far cut as well. One who has the interests of the schools at heart and feels a pride in the growth and development of the city will find much valuable and interesting reading in the school reports published from year to year. The earliest printed report obtainable is dated Feb. 28, 1848 and signed by the late Judge Samuel W. Luques and Hon. Frederic Robie, who constituted the School Committee of the town. From that, we learn that the amount raised that year by the town for the support of the schools was $2500, to which was added the sum received from the state, $130, and that there were registered in towns that year 1613 pupils between the ages of four and twentyone.

In the report for 1900 the amount appropriated for all schools by the city was $17 000. The amount received from the state was $13,852.75 making a total of $30,852.75, and the census of school children in the city for 1900 registers 5758 children.

In closing this somewhat inadequate sketch, no better words can be found than those with which the honorable gentlemen above mentioned ended that interesting report of 1848: "Let our schools be the models of excellence, where the rising talent and energy of youth may find a proper direction, a right aim. Let us understand that our common schools are the bulwarks of our liberty and prosperity. Let us watch with interest and anxious care the training of youth, that the integrity of our union may be continued."

THOMAS H. EMERY.

Thomas H. Emery.

THOMAS H. Emery was born at Buxton in 1834. He attended the common schools and graduated from Limington Academy. He commenced the study of Medicine and received the degree of M. D. from the Maine Medical School. He was a successful physician and surgeon, but owing to trouble with his knees which he had sprained very severely in early life, rendering him unable to walk, he was obliged to give up the practice of his chosen profession. He commenced teaching in 1852; his first school was in district No. 2. The committee at that time consisted of ex-Governor Frederick Robie, Rev. Mr. Sinclair and Dr. Luke Hill. He taught in every district in the city but two. He was assistant physician at the Insane Asylum at Augusta in 1862, and Assistant Surgeon General of the 11th Maine Volunteers in 1863.

At this time, after having tried in vain to find relief for the trouble with his knees, he decided to make school teaching his life work and commenced as teacher of the Sullivan St. Grammar school in 1865. He taught that school until 1872, when he was transferred to the Summer St. Grammar school, where he taught until his resignation at the close of the fall term in the year 1890.

He was an ideal teacher, always genial, kind hearted, and full of encouragement. Teaching was a pleasure to him, and to attend school and be instructed by him was considered by all his pupils a great privilege. He had just completed forty years service in the schools of this city when he passed in his resignation. His death occurred in 1899.

Harry J. Tatterson.

HARRY J. Tatterson was born in Saco, attended the public schools of Lawrence, Lowell and Methuen, Mass., fitted for college in the last named place and graduated from Dartmouth College in 1874.

He studied law in the office of Hon. Geo. C. Yeaton at South Berwick, came to Biddeford in 1879 and practised law until elected principal of the Birch St. Grammar school. He was peculiarly adapted to the work, and had the faculty of imparting information to pupils that many a teacher does not possess.

The scholars sent to the High school from the Birch St. Grammar were noted for their splendid preparation and always took high rank in that school. He was principal of the Grammar school for nearly ten years, when on account of failing health and needed rest and by the advice of his physician he presented his resignation to take effect at once.

He was beloved and respected by all his pupils during his term of service and was held in high esteem in the community. He lived but a few weeks after leaving his school work, dying very suddenly while bathing at Beachwood July 22, 1895. He was a man of broad ideas, noble character and a true friend, and in his death the community met with a great loss.

SEVENTH Grade

Rugged strength and radiant beauty,
All combined in nature's plan,
Humble toil and heavenly duty,
May even form the perfect man.

The words which thou hast uttered,
Are of thy soul a part,
And the good seed thou hast scattered,
Is springing from the heart.

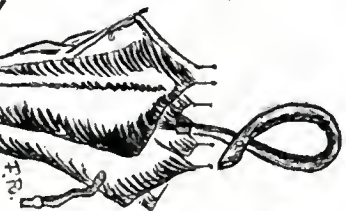

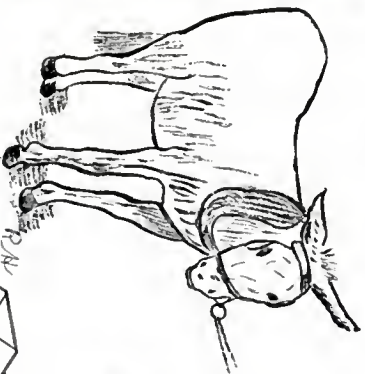

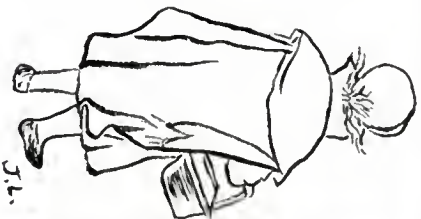

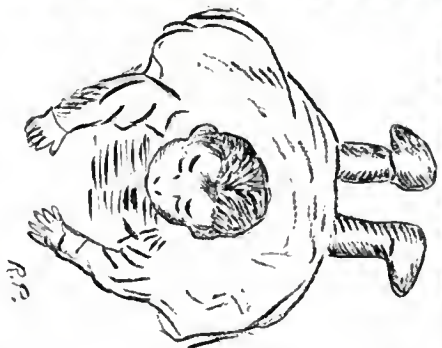

The words which thou hast uttered,
Are of thy soul a part,
And the good seed thou hast scattered,
Is springing from the heart.

There are as many pleasant tones,
As many pleasant tones,
For those who dwell in cottages,
As those who sit on thrones.

This life is oft perplexing,
Tis much the wisest plan
To bear all trials bravely,
And smile where'er we can.

Help the weak if you are strong,
Love the old if you are young,
Own a fault if you are wrong.
If you are angry hold your tongue.
